The Wilton-Wing Miners celebrate their first score of the game against Washburn

The Wilton-Wing Miners wrapped up their 2025 volleyball season with a strong showing at the Division B, District 8 Tournament in Underwood, playing with determination and unity that reflected months of hard work and improvement.

While the season ended just shy of a regional berth, Head Coach Heidi Weisgarber said she couldn't be prouder of the group's fight and commitment through every match.

Seeded sixth entering the tournament, Wilton-Wing opened play on Thursday, October 30, against third-seeded New Salem-Almont in the quarterfinal round.

Despite an impressive effort, the Miners fell 3-1 (25-14, 25-21, 22-25, 25-18) to a strong Holsteins team that went on to finish as the District 8 runner-up.

The Miners battled through each set, earning a gritty third-set win by playing clean defense and capitalizing on New Salem-Almont's unforced errors, but ultimately couldn't overcome early struggles with consistency.

Coach Weisgarber said her team wasn't able to find their rhythm early on.

"We didn't play our best volleyball against New Salem," she said. "We missed a lot of serves and didn't control our passing very well, which led to some avoidable mistakes."

After that loss, the Miners moved into the consolation bracket, where they faced No. 7 Center-Stanton on Friday, October 31.

This time, Wilton-Wing looked much sharper, controlling all three sets en route to a convincing 3-0 sweep (25-15, 25-20, 25-14).

The win extended their tournament run and showcased the kind of disciplined volleyball Weisgarber had been emphasizing all season.
