BONE DENSITY SCANS (DXA)

Bone Density Scans help detect Osteoporosis (bone thinning) before a fracture occurs. Osteoporosis is often called the "silent disease" because it usually has no symptoms until a fracture happens. The bones most at risk are the hip, spine & forearm. Early detection means earlier treatment and better outcomes For Women (age 50) and Men (age 65) - should have a baseline scan. DXA (Dual-energy X-ray Absorptiometry) scan. Repeat as indicated (typically every 2 years)
