

How To Cook 'Everything' Hebron

With The Best Of Hebron Recipes!

A fourth grader by the name of Joey submitted a chili recipe for a cookbook his class at the Hebron School was compiling a number of years ago. It sounds like a tasty recipe and it is printed here for you this week.

Chili

1 lb. beef
1 can 16 oz. kidney beans (not drained)
1 can corn (drained)
1 (4 oz.) chopped green chili (not drained)
1 tsp. minced garlic

1 cup chopped onion
2 ½ tsp. chili powder

Joey

Chicken Rice

Mix together:
1 cup wild rice; 1 can cream of chicken soup; 1 can cream of celery soup; ½ can milk.

Put in 9 x 13 inch pan. Lay cut up chicken (can use just breasts) over mixture. Sprinkle 1 package onion soup mix over chicken.

Bake at 300 degrees for two hours (covered). Bake at 350 degrees for ½ hour (uncovered) (careful) not to let this get too dry.)

Tortilla Chicken Roll-Ups

Roll flour tortillas around leaf lettuce, sliced cooked chicken, and avocado dip. Then serve with your favorite bottled salsa.

8 – 8 inch four tortillas
1 ½ lb. sliced cooked chicken or ham
2 – 6 oz. containers frozen avocado dip, thawed
1 – 12 oz. jar salsa.

Top each tortilla with lettuce. Then top with chicken or ham slice. Spread with 2 tbsp. of the avocado dip. Roll up tortillas jelly-roll style. Place, seam side down, on the serving tray. Cover and chill till serving time.

Just before serving, garnish tortillas with cilantro or parsley and slices of tomato, chili pepper, and pitted ripe olive, if desired. Serve with salsa and any remaining avocado dip. Serves 8.

Hilary Gietzen Shearing Career

by Hilary Gietzen

From Last Week

As we were traveling, I was interested to see the wildlife. The elephants were right on the edge of the road. I had never seen elephants in the wild before.

We arrived Mombasa, and spent the night. Mombasa had been having a lot of rain and there was a lot of flooding going on.

Mombasa is a coastal city along the Indian Ocean. It was the first capital of British East Africa, before Nairobi was elevated to capital status in 1907. Mombasa is the country's oldest city, dating back to 900 A.D. The population is 1,208,000 people. Mombasa's location made it a historical trading center. Some buildings in Mombasa date back to 1300 A.D.

We hired a taxi to take us to Kilifi, which is north of Mombasa. It is a coastal town on the Indian Ocean. It is very hot and humid in Kilifi. We had a hard time traveling because of the flooding. There were numerous roads that were underwater. It took us more than a half of a day to go what should take us an hour and forty five minutes.

Odilias was very happy that we came to visit, and was very proud to be showing me her school. Odilias seemed to have a lot of friends and is very involved with organizations, including the church choir.

She has a small apartment that is fairly close to the school. She is very happy to be calling the apartment her home. It is nothing more than a square room about the size of a small bedroom. There are no closets, and no kitchen. She just cooks in one corner of the room.

We were able to rent three sleeping rooms at the school. Tom and I had a room. Ruth and Odilias had a room, and the taxi driver had a room.

In the evening, I was teaching them how to play Monopoly. I brought a game with me, and I wanted to see if it would help them understand the management of handling money. I am not sure if they learned, but they sure had a lot of fun. It was fun for me to watch them play.

The taxi driver was a musician by trade. He had several CD's and marketed his music. He also wrote a couple of books, and was selling them on Amazon. He just stayed around Kilifi, and when we didn't need any rides, he would drive real slowly with a speaker outside of the car, marketing his music. By the time that we left town, he had met a lot of people.

We returned back to Mombasa on a Sunday afternoon. It wasn't raining, and it was a beautiful drive. I was surprised how different things looked when it wasn't flooding.

Early on Monday morning, we were scheduled to take the train back to Nairobi. My flight back was scheduled to leave in the night. As things happened, when the ticket office handed out our tickets, my ticket was a little bit away from Ruth and Thomas.

Thaddeus had booked us on the train, and he put us on first class. That meant that there was an attendant going up and down the aisle asking if we needed anything to eat or drink.
