The Hebron Farmers Elevator held their annual meeting last week while celebrating the businesses 100th anniversary. About 45 stockholders and spouses were present for the evening meal, catered by RS Jack and Jill. The elevator became incorporated July 24, 1916. The Board of Directors at the Hebron Farmers Elevator are Mark Hauser, vice president; Chester Brandt, secretary-treasurer; Brain Wehri, president; and directors Jason Wehri, Wayne Maershbecker, Fred Duckwitz and David Opp.

A water break at the former Hebron Medical Clinic that houses the Hebron Dental Clinic, the “A Cut Up” beauty shop, owned and operated by Desirae Hofer Reuer, and Hebron Public Library caused extensive damage to the beauty shop. The beauty shop was full of water, ceiling tile had fallen to the ground, walls were ruined, carpeting was covered with water, tile on the floor had lifted, plaster on the bathroom wall had fallen and although her color products were not ruined, the packaging was missing so she would not have a clue which color she would be working with. Water ran out of the tanning bed as it was lifted.

Tanner Hofer, son of Daryl and Toni Hofer, Hebron, graduated from North Dakota State College of Science, Wahpeton, June 23. Hofer earned an Associate in Applied Science degree in culinary arts.

PLEASE REFRAIN

The City of Hebron asks all Hebron residents to refrain from flushing paper towels or what is referred to as “flushable wipes” or baby wipes down the toilet.

These items do not disintegrate as toilet paper does. Not only can it create sewer system issues for the city lagoon and pump stations, it can plug up residential sewer lines in homes which could cost homeowners hundreds of dollars in plumbing repair bills.

Thank you.
