employees: Veterans Service Officer Frank Fettig, after five years of service, and library employee Jan Schauer, after more than 29 years. Longevity payments of $125 and $870 were approved. New Veterans Service Officer Chris Upton was approved for $518.24 in training pay.

Representatives from Brosz Engineering updated commissioners on upcoming bridge and road projects. Gravel and culvert work is planned for unorganized township roads, with bids expected to open May 11 at 1:15 p.m. A completion date of Oct. 23 was discussed.

Officials also reviewed the Lakeview Drive road project, which received a grant of more than $1 million.

Adams County and Hettinger Township will split the remaining $70,000 not covered by the grant. The road will be surfaced with asphalt but not widened.

Road Superintendent Justin Blade introduced new employee Chris Hanson, who will divide time between county and City of Hettinger projects. Hanson will earn $22 per hour, with the city billed $37 per hour for time spent on city work.

Blade also discussed drainage complaints along the Haynes road, tree removal requests, and damage to a county trailer involved in a recent accident east of town. Commissioners said they would prefer immediate replacement or a rental trailer for gravel hauling season.

During public comment, librarian Lanae Kristy requested action on removing a tree near the library. Commissioners agreed to proceed with the previously approved project. Kristy also received permission to launch a TikTok account for the library.

Commissioners then opened bids on surplus equipment, receiving 17 bids on 10 items. Top bids included $13,750 from Jack Hoffman for a 1994 John Deere loader and $4,500 from Craig Silkman for a 1995 GMC one-ton truck.

Roseland also reported he is drafting zoning ordinances related to data centers, wind and solar projects and hopes to have a draft ready by July.

The next Adams County Commission meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, May 12, beginning at 8:00 a.m.

sidered safe shelters. If you are outside, lie in a ditch or low-lying area and use your arms to cover your head and neck to protect yourself from flying debris.

The sirens will sound for approximately three minutes, but just because they turn off, it does not mean people are out of danger.

Residents should stay informed of the threat by tuning in on an all-hazards radio, check local television and radio reports or use Internet resources. Please refrain from calling Emergency Services Dispatch (911) to ask why the sirens are sounding. Only call if you have an actual emergency.

There is NO "All Clear" signal when the sirens have been activated for an actual emergency.

Outdoor siren systems are an effective method of outdoor notification; however, the system should not be relied upon for early warning for individuals indoors. Air-conditioning, thunder, wind, rain, and other conditions can cause the sirens to not be heard inside a building. Sirens are also subject to equipment malfunction as well as failure due to damage from lightning strikes.

The Emergency Manager highly recommends each home and business have other means to receive warnings and notifications such as a NOAA all hazard radios, specifically one with SAME feature, or subscribe to a service provide who will automatically send a phone call, email or text message out when a storm warning is issued for specified locations.

NOAA ALL Hazards Weather Radio is a network of radio stations broadcasting continuous weather information directly from a nearby Weather Service office.

NOAA Weather

Radio broadcasts National Weather Service warnings, watches, forecasts and other hazard information 24 hours a day.

It also broadcasts of non-weather emergencies alerts such as national security, natural, environmental, and public safety alerts.

Remember, lightning, hail, and flooding are all potentials with these storms. Prepare yourself in advance by discussing and practicing safety plans with your coworkers and families. Have a shelter location identified before an emergency arises. If you do not have a basement, make arrangements with friends, family, or neighbors for a place to take shelter when severe weather approaches.

Know where to meet or who to contact when the storm passes. You will only have a short amount of time to make a life or death decision. Advance planning and quick response are the keys to surviving a tornado or other life-threatening event.
