Zoning board meets

By Jordanna Garland
The Beach Zoning Board met on Oct. 20, holding a public hearing on an application for a conditional use building on Hunter’s 4th Addition, Block 2, Lot 1 & North half Lot 2 to construct an accessory structure - Residential 1.
The Hunter’s 4th Addition structure is located on a vacant lot that is across from an alley to the west of the applicant’s residence. As per the zoning ordinance, accessory structures can only be built on a vacant lot if it has a conditional use. They’re planning for the structure to be built 15 feet from the alley (the property line) and 10 feet from the side property line.
Tom Marman, who visited the meeting, commented on the setback of building, stating that there should be a 25 foot setback from the alley, not 15, to allow for cars to park there without encroaching into the alley.
“It should be something to be looked at,” Marman said. “I know we have setbacks that are closer than that, but if the garage door is going to be on that side, it needs to be moved back to 25 feet, at least that’s what I would recommend.”

Zoning Board member Michelle Marman recommended the board approve the conditional use with the stipulation that the setback has to be farther.
Additionally, the zoning board reviewed an application for a conditional use at Hunter’s 1st Addition Block 4, Lots 1-14 to allow for a single family residential in a commercial. David Meyers initially submitted an application in 2019 and it was approved then, but now the permit has expired.
Meyers has worked on the property by having a company come to remove some vehicles and a dumpster full of metal off the land. He is also planning on having privacy fences installed.
A public hearing for Meyer’s application is scheduled to be held at the next Zoning Board meeting on Nov. 17.
