FARRMS Farmer Business Planning Course Returns in January!

NORTH DAKOTA – The Foundation for Agricultural and Rural Resources Management and Sustainability (FARRMS) is accepting applications for their Farm Beginnings® course, beginning on January 8, 2026 and running through April 2, 2026. Farm Beginnings® is a 12-week course that delivers community-based sustainable agriculture education, guided by local farmers who view farming as a holistic lifestyle. Farmers will receive guidance in crafting a whole farm plan and will be connected to essential resources for farm success. Participants will attend weekly, online classes via Zoom on Thursday evenings from 6:00pm to 8:00pm (CT). Applications are open now until December 27, 2025.Registration is $25 per student, and tuition is $500 per farm. Scholarships are available. For more information and to apply, visit farrms.org/succeed.

This course is tailored for beginning farmers who are in their first ten years of farming, experiencing a transition phase, or scaling up their operations. It provides a comprehensive toolkit of insights and practical resources suitable for farmers, ranchers, and food business owners at different stages of their journey by discussing vision and values, financial and business planning, sustainable farming practices, marketing to connect with customers, farm food safety, and much more. Our community-based model gives participants the opportunity to learn directly from experienced North Dakota producers not only in class, but by connecting one-on-one through mentorship. Farm Beginnings helps new and beginning farmers build a strong foundation for their business. A 2025 student says, “It was nice to hear a variety of types of farming but also to know that some shared the same vision and struggles and some that have overcome these as well.” Another recent participant adds, “The course provided great resources and mentorship to enhance my knowledge and overcome challenges.” If you are ready to take your farm business to the next level, consider taking this course and apply today! Please reach out to Farmer Educator, Jake Callander, at jcallander@farrms.org with any questions. FARRMS is a 501c3 nonprofit providing education, peer networks, and financial support to beginning farmers and ensuring their success through business planning education, mentorship, internship opportunities, and more. For more information about FARRMS contact info@farrms.org, call 701-877-1794 or learn more about our programs at farrms.org, on Facebook, and Instagram @farrms.nd.
