"Hazel's Heart" Makes National Premiere This Christmas After Successful North Dakota Debut

TRUE STORY OF COURAGE AND SURVIVAL FROM THE 1920 BLIZZARD REACHES NATIONAL AUDIENCES DEC. 23

A powerful North Dakota story is headed nationwide this Christmas. "Hazel's Heart," a feature film written and directed by University of Mary professor and filmmaker Daniel Bielinski, will make its national digital premiere Dec. 23 following a highly successful world premiere across North Dakota earlier this fall.

Distributed by Samuel Goldwyn Films, the movie will be released on video-on-demand starting Dec. 23 across Apple TV, Amazon, Google Play/YouTube Movies, Fandango-at-Home, Versant, Vubiquity, and DirecTV/AT&T, with an exclusive streaming window on Angel Studios beginning Dec. 18.

"Hazel's Heart" tells the true story of 16-year-old Hazel Miner, a farm girl from Center, N.D., whose heroic actions during a deadly 1920 blizzard became one of the state's most enduring survival stories. Originally developed under the title "Hazel," the name was "In communication with our distributor Samuel Goldwyn, we decided that the name 'Hazel's Heart' would have more marketing potential," Bielinski said.

The film stars Madelyn Dundon in the title role, alongside Stelio Savante, Xavier Bielinski, Genevieve Bielinski, Timothy E. Goodwin, David Michael Reardon, Todd Terry, and Laurie Fortier, with a featured performance by Grammy-nominated singer Franni Cash. "Hazel's Heart" is produced by Canticle Productions, DN Cinematics, Samaco Films, and Stroop Fik Entertainment. A Great Plains Story of Grit and Heroism

Set in rural North Dakota in 1920, the film follows Hazel as she struggles to keep her younger siblings alive through a fierce whiteout blizzard, while her father leads a risky rescue mission through subzero temperatures. The story unfolds over a harrowing 25 hours that test endurance, determination, and the quiet strength of a young girl fighting impossible odds.

"It's a beautiful, true story of the courage and resilience so powerfully embodied in this heroic young girl," Bielinski said. "Hazel wasn't a superhero — she was a small, humble farm girl who found strength through sacrificial love. That's what real heroism is."

Bielinski wrote much of the screenplay during a blizzard. "I wrote the screenplay for 'Hazel's Heart' during a three-day blizzard, when the streets were closed due to massive amounts of snow," he said. "I sat in my bedroom, watching the snow fall out the window, and wept my way through the entire script. It was the perfect setting."

From Local Premiere to National Release
Following packed screenings in Bismarck, Williston, Fargo, Belfield, Watford City, and Minot, the film quickly generated strong word-of-mouth and acclaim for its cinematography, acting, and emotional impact.

Executive Producer Stelio Savante helped secure the film's national release.

"I'm thrilled to bring Dan and Samuel Goldwyn Films together to collectively honor Hazel's legacy," Savante said.

Samuel Goldwyn Films, one of the country's most respected independent distributors, has released Academy Award-winning and Academy Award-nominated features and maintains a renowned library of classic American films. A Story with Wide Appeal
Though rooted in North Dakota history, Bielinski believes "Hazel's Heart" speaks broadly.

"The world is full of ugliness, and it seems that movies and television relish almost exclusively in exploring the many facets of that ugliness," he said. "While there's merit in confronting hardship, it's equally important to celebrate beauty and triumph. Hazel Miner's story is exactly that — a beautiful and triumphant sacrifice."

Bielinski's work on "Hazel's Heart" reflects his ongoing efforts to establish the University of Mary as a premier center for the performing arts. University of Mary students regularly assist with aspects of his film productions, as well as with theatre productions on campus, gaining hands-on experience in acting, design, production, and storytelling.
