Engelhart said. “Owner Aurora Wallman has created a cozy, modern space where locals and visitors can enjoy everything from fresh-made cinnamon rolls and crepes to flavorful salmon bowls and sandwiches. Alongside her delicious menu, Aurora offers hand-poured candles, natural soaps and lotions, and seasonal shopping — making Auroma a must-stop destination in Bowman.”

Asked what advice she’d offer to others, Wallman emphasized creativity and passion. “Be you, be unique, and roll with your idea,” she said. “Unique things succeed — people love them.”

She also spoke candidly about boundaries as a business owner. “We have minimal hours and a minimal menu,” Wallman said. “I’m already married to this place, but I don’t want it to take up my life.”

Candle scents include Wallman’s current favorite, Woodland Hideaway, along with Autumn Morning and Vanilla Cotton.

$3.2 million expansion, initially approved in April 2021. The project, which has undergone revisions, will add space on the 2nd Avenue West side of the building, featuring a relocated adult nonfiction section, an additional circulation desk, more public-use areas, and dedicated children’s spaces. Anguiano noted that the expansion is necessary to accommodate growing patronage and program offerings.

The library, constructed between 1908 and 1910 with funds from Andrew Carnegie, is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. Anguiano assured that the expansion plans are being Alondra Lopez. Their work connects individuals across six languages, assisting community members who face language barriers when navigating the healthcare system. Among the events they support are Tummy Time, a regular gathering for parents of young children, and the upcoming ROSE Program, an educational initiative designed to improve perinatal mental health.

According to the grant guidelines, funded projects must address a significant health need identified by the hospital, demonstrate sustained activity for at least nine months and directly serve vulnerable populations. Grants under $20,000 do not require outside partnerships, while those over that threshold must involve additional organizations playing distinct roles. The grant does not fund general operations or capital projects.

Women Empowering Women continues to collaborate with the North Dakota Department of Health and is actively welcoming new members as it grows its programming and outreach.
