students are comfortable speaking to her about any topic.

"I want them to know it's a safe environment to talk to me, judge-free," she said. "Everyone has different life experiences. Some kids are very exposed while others are naïve. I try to make sure they're all on the same page and we learn together and make a safe place to talk. I make sure they know they're allowed to ask questions, especially about something the really don't know about."

Schmidt said her classes aren't just lecturing. Her classroom holds more engaging conversations between her and her students.

"I've learned to be very open-minded when it comes to teaching students," she said. "Be open and meet every student where they're at in their mindset."

Outside of the classrooms, Schmidt is also the school district's HOSA advisor.

Schmidt's family includes her husband, Brad, and their three children, Aleigha, 15, Dawson, 12, and Brycen, 11.

Schmidt and the other County Teachers of the Year will be honored at a special recognition event at the State Capitol in Bismarck on June 23.
