Dale & Martha Hawk Museum's 36th Annual Farm Show to feature Oliver and Hart Parr

WOLFORD, ND - The Northern Lights Oliver Collectors, in partnership with the Dale & Martha Hawk Museum, will host the 2026 Hart-Parr Oliver Collectors Association Secondary Summer Show June 12-14 near Wolford, North Dakota.

with several other rare and hard-to-find tractors.

Additional activities include blacksmith demonstrations, a silent auction, and educational presentations.

Food options will be plentiful throughout the weekend. Attendees can enjoy offerings from Ma's Cooker, The Snack Shack, and Martha's Kitchen, which will serve breakfast, lunch, and supper specials.

The event will feature working demonstrations including threshing, sawing, plowing, and a dynamometer, along with a tractor parade, and exhibitor displays.

A highlight of this year's show will be the appearance of the Oliver XO-121 prototype, along days, with free admission for ages 12 and under. Parking is free.

On site camping opens prior to the show. Campsites first come, first served, with electric camping available for $50 for the weekend and primitive camping available for $30.

The event is designed to be affordable for families, with low admission cost, optional low cost camping, and several included activities.

The show will take place at the Dale and Martha Hawk Museum, located at 4839 78th Street NE near Wolford.

Newspaper readers will see an abundance of insurance statements

A law change will require a greater number of insurance abstract statements to be published in North Dakota newspapers this year.

During the 69th Legislative Assembly, the North Dakota Legislature enacted House Bill 1398, which modified the publishing requirements for insurance companies doing business in North Dakota.

nearly doubles the number of companies required to publish these financial statements, and requires all companies to publish in all eight judicial districts.

These publications have occurred in North Dakota newspapers for decades, but readers will notice significantly more than usual. Last year, all of the abstracts were distributed only to newspapers with the largest cir-ulation in each judicial district. Prior to 2025, all newspapers shared equally in making these publications.

Traditionally, the notices were published in May, but so far, only about half have complied by supplying their information.

"This will require publication of these notices in batches, possibly stretching into July," said Cecile Wehrman, executive director of the North Dakota Newspaper Association. Under N.D.C.C. § 26.1-03-10 as amended by House Bill 1398, an insurance company shall submit an abstract of the annual statement on the form prescribed by the commissioner. This abstract must be published at least three times in a newspaper of general circulation and evenly distributed for publication across all newspapers operating in each of the state's eight judicial districts. Proof of publication must be filed with the commissioner within four months after the filing of the annual statement.

"These changes came about as a means of restoring publication to all newspapers in the state, rather than concentrating publication only in the largest newspapers, as had been directed by the insurance commissioner," said Wehrman.

Payment for publication of these notices comes from the insurance companies. No tax dollars are involved.

The purpose of the statements is to provide consumers information about the financial stability of companies people pay premiums to for property/casualty, life and health insurance.

What are all these insurance statements?

During the 69th Legislative Assembly, the North Dakota Legislature enacted House Bill 1398, which modified the publishing requirements for insurance companies doing business in North Dakota, as it relates to publication of the Company Abstract of Statement.

Under N.D.C.C. § 26.1-03-10 as amended by House Bill 1398, an insurance company shall submit an abstract of the annual statement on the form prescribed by the commissioner.

This abstract must be published at least three times in a newspaper of general circulation and evenly distributed for publication across all newspapers operating in each of the state's eight judicial districts. Proof of publication must be filed with the commissioner within four months after the filing of the annual statement.

The modifications made under House Bill 1398 during the 69th Legislative Assembly require all insurance companies to publish their Abstract in all eight judicial districts.

Payment for publication of these notices comes from the insurance company, not state government.
