Southwest Water Authority Celebrates Drinking Water Week with Community Display

DICKINSON, N.D. – Southwest Water Authority (SWA) is joining communities across the country to celebrate Drinking Water Week, May 3-9, 2026. This annual observance, led by the American Water Works Association, highlights the importance of safe, reliable drinking water and the professionals who make it possible.

To mark this week, SWA will host an educational display at the Dickinson Public Library from May 1-8. The display will feature water education materials, interactive activities for children and take-home booklets, along with a water fact board designed to help visitors better understand where their water comes from and how it reaches their tap. “Drinking Water Week is a great opportunity to connect with our community and share the story of how water moves from its source to homes and businesses across southwest North Dakota,” said Jen Murray, manager and CEO of Southwest Water Authority. “We’re proud to provide high-quality drinking water and to help educate the public about the vital role it plays in everyday life.”

Community members are encouraged to visit the display, explore the materials and learn more about the systems and people behind their drinking water.

Drinking Water Week serves as a reminder that protecting water sources and investing in infrastructure are essential to ensuring a safe and sustainable water supply for future generations.

Since 1986, the Southwest Pipeline Project has been constructing an efficient network of pipelines, pump stations, reservoirs, and treatment facilities to bring quality water to the region. To date, 33 communities and more than 7,800 rural service locations, 24 contract customers, 25 raw-water customers, and two rural water systems are served by the Project. Reaching rural areas where people continue to wait is dependent on everyone’s support. Southwest Water Authority continues its mission of Quality Water for Southwest North Dakota.

Newspaper readers will see an abundance of insurance statements

A law change will require a greater number of insurance abstract statements to be published in North Dakota newspapers this year.

During the 69th Legislative Assembly, the North Dakota Legislature enacted House Bill 1398, which modified the publishing requirements for insurance companies doing business in North Dakota. The change nearly doubles the number of companies required to publish these financial statements, and requires all companies to publish in all eight judicial districts.

These publications have occurred in North Dakota newspapers for decades, but readers will notice significantly more than usual. Last year, all of the abstracts were distributed only to newspapers with the largest circulation in each judicial district. Prior to 2025, all newspapers shared equally in making these publications.

Traditionally, the notices were published in May, but so far, only about half have complied by supplying their information.

“This will require publication of these notices in batches, possibly stretching into July,” said Cecile Wehrman, executive director of the North Dakota Newspaper Association.

Under N.D.C.C. § 26.1-03-10 as amended by House Bill 1398, an insurance company shall submit an abstract of the annual statement on the form prescribed by the commissioner. This abstract must be published at least three times in a newspaper of general circulation and evenly distributed for publication across all newspapers operating in each of the state’s eight judicial districts. Proof of publication must be filed with the commissioner within four months after the filing of the annual statement.

“These changes came about as a means of restoring publication to all newspapers in the state, rather than concentrating publication only in the largest newspapers, as had been directed by the insurance commissioner,” said Wehrman.

Payment for publication of these notices comes from the insurance companies. No tax dollars are involved.

The purpose of the statements is to provide consumers information about the financial stability of companies people pay premiums to for property/casualty, life and health insurance.
