While the rest of us are using headbolt heaters and jumper cables to get our vehicles started on cold mornings, George Klein, who ranches near Square Butte, is looking for horseshoes for his team. The especially large shoes with cleats for pulling on ice or through snow enable the large draft horses to pull a load of feed with adequate footing for the horses. George recently purchased the team of horses named Mary and Sam near Bismarck.

Carl had his dairy cows in the barn and Donna had her own "herd" in the house. She had cows everywhere! Donna sold Avon for 22 years and enjoyed getting the new catalogs with all the fun things they came out with. She liked visiting with her Avon customers while delivering their orders and found pleasure in using her Avon income to give gifts to her family. Donna was a proud breast cancer survivor.
